Paper 1 – Reading

Time allowed:

80 minutes

Please read this information before the examination starts:

Spend 40 minutes on Section A.
Answer ALL questions.

Spend 40 minutes on Section B.
Answer ONE question on the play you have studied.

Vocabulary, spelling, grammar, punctuation and presentation are important and will be taken into account.
Section A: Unseen Poem

Read the poem ‘Zero Hour’ by Matthew Sweeney and answer the questions which follow, using complete sentences. The marks at the end should be a guide as to how much you should write.

Zero Hour

Tomorrow all the trains will stop and we will be stranded. Cars have already been immobilised
by the petrol wars, and sit abandoned, along the roadsides.
The airports, for two days now,
are closed-off zones where dogs
congregate loudly on the runways.
To be in possession of a bicycle is to risk your life. My neighbour,
a doctor, has somehow acquired a horse
and rides to his practice, a rifle
clearly visible beneath the reins.
I sit in front of the television,
for each successive news bulletin
then reach for the whisky bottle.
How long before the shelves are empty
in the supermarkets? The first riots are raging as I write, and who
out there could have predicted
this sudden countdown to zero hour,
all the paraphernalia of our comfort
stamped obsolete, our memories
fighting to keep us sane and upright?

Matthew Sweeney
Questions

1. Identify three changes to normal life that the speaker has noticed and explore their significance. (6 marks)

2. What can you understand about the character of the speaker from both what he is doing and the tone of the poem as a whole? (5 marks)

3. What do you understand by the last three lines of the poem? (4 marks)

4. How effectively do you think this poem represents a breakdown in society? (5 marks)

Total: 20 marks
Read the following extract and answer the question that follows it.

INSPECTOR (coolly) At the end of January, last year, this girl Eva Smith had to leave Milwards, because Miss Birling compelled them to discharge her, and then she stopped being Eva Smith, looking for a job and became Daisy Renton, with other ideas. (Sharply turning on him.) Mr Croft, when did you first get to know her?

An exclamation of surprise from BIRLING and MRS BIRLING.

GERALD Where did you get the idea that I did know her?

SHEILA It’s no use, Gerald. You’re wasting time.

INSPECTOR As soon as I mentioned the name Daisy Renton, it was obvious you’d known her. You gave yourself away at once.

SHEILA (bitterly) Of course he did.

INSPECTOR And anyhow I knew already. When and where did you first meet her?

GERALD All right, if you must have it. I met her first, sometime in March last year, in the stalls bar at the Palace. I mean the Palace music hall here in Brumley –

SHEILA Well, we didn’t think you meant Buckingham Palace.

GERALD (to SHEILA) Thanks. You’re going to be a great help, I can see. You’ve said your piece, and you’re obviously going to hate this, so why on earth don’t you leave us to it?

SHEILA Nothing would induce me. I want to understand exactly what happens when a man says he’s so busy at the works that he can hardly ever find time to come and see the girl he’s supposed to be in love with. I wouldn’t miss it for worlds –

INSPECTOR (with authority) Yes, Mr Croft – in the stalls bar at the Palace Variety Theatre...

GERALD I happened to look in, one night, after a long dull day, and as the show wasn’t very bright, I went down into the bar for a drink. It’s a favourite haunt of women of the town –

MRS BIRLING Women of the town?

Section B: Studied Literature

OR: The Crucible

Read the following extract and answer the question that follows it.

The common room of Proctor’s house, eight days later. At the right is a door opening on the fields outside. A fireplace is at the left, and behind it a stairway leading upstairs. It is the low, dark, and rather long living room of the time. As the curtain rises, the room is empty. From above, Elizabeth is heard softly singing to the children. Presently the door opens and JOHN PROCTOR enters, carrying his gun. He glances about the room as he comes toward the fireplace, then halts for an instant as he hears her singing. He continues on to the fireplace, leans the gun against the wall as he swings a pot out of the fire and smells it. Then he lifts out the ladle and tastes. He is not quite pleased. He reaches to a cupboard, takes a pinch of salt, and drops it into the pot. As he is tasting again, her footsteps are heard on the stair. He swings the pot into the fireplace and goes to a basin and washes his hands and face. ELIZABETH enters.

ELIZABETH What keeps you so late? It’s almost dark.

PROCTOR I were planting far out to the forest edge.

ELIZABETH Oh, you’re done then.

PROCTOR Aye, the farm is seeded. The boys asleep?

ELIZABETH They will be soon. (She goes to the fireplace and proceeds to ladle up a stew in a dish.)

PROCTOR Pray now for a fair summer.

ELIZABETH Aye.

PROCTOR Are you well today?

ELIZABETH I am. (She brings the plate to the table, and, indicates the food.) It is a rabbit.

PROCTOR (going to the table) Oh, is it! In Jonathan’s trap?

ELIZABETH No, she walked into the house this afternoon; found her sittin’ in the corner like she come to visit.

PROCTOR Oh, that’s a good sign walkin’ in.

ELIZABETH Pray God. I hurt my heart to strip her, poor rabbit. (She sits and watches him taste it.)

PROCTOR It is well seasoned.

ELIZABETH (blushing with pleasure) I took great care. She’s tender?

PROCTOR Aye. (He eats. She watches him.) I think we’ll see green fields soon. It’s warm as blood beneath the clods.

ELIZABETH That’s well.
PROCTOR eats, then looks up.

PROCTOR If the crop is good, I'll buy George Jacob's heifer. How would that please you?

ELIZABETH Aye, it would.

PROCTOR (with a grin) I mean to please you, Elizabeth.

ELIZABETH - (it hard to say) I know it, John.

He gets up, goes to her, kisses her. She receives it. With a certain disappointment, he returns to the table.

PROCTOR (as gently as he can) Cider?

ELIZABETH (with a sense of reprimanding herself for having forgot.) Aye! (She gets up and goes and pours a glass for him. He now arches his back.)

PROCTOR This farm's a continent when you go foot by foot droppin' seeds in it.

ELIZABETH (coming with the cider) It must be.

PROCTOR (drinks a long draught, then, putting his glass down) You ought to bring some flowers in the house.

ELIZABETH Oh! I forgot! I will tomorrow.

PROCTOR It is winter in here yet. On Sunday let you come with me, and we'll walk the farm together; I never see such a load of flowers on the earth. (With good feeling he goes and looks up at the sky through the open doorway.) Lilacs have a purple smell. Lilac is the smell of nightfall, I think. Massachusetts is a beauty in the spring!

ELIZABETH Aye, it is.

There is a pause. She is watching him from the table as he stands there absorbing the night. It is as though she would speak but cannot. Instead, now, she takes up his plate and glass and fork and goes with them to the basin. Her back is turned to him. He turns to her and watches her. A sense of their separation arises.
